Curtis Jett. who is under arrest at Winchester, charged with the crime, will not ask for a change of venue if indicted and returned to Jackson. Prosecuting Attorney Byrd stated that it is possible that such a motion might be made by those most interested in the prosecution. Doubt is expressed by many as to the probability of witnesses mustering up courage to tell the grand jury all they know. The common belief is that fear of assassination after the troops are withdrawn may seal the lips of those who may know about the killing of Marcum. No time has been set for the withdrawal of troops.

A FINISH FIGHT ON

Capital Will Not Submit to Die-Lates of Walking Delegates.

So Say Representatives of Many Manufacturing States in Session at New York.

LEGAL COUNSEL EMPLOYED

New York, May 25-According to the views expressed by the representatives from twenty of the leading manufacturing states in the union, who met in executive session in the rooms of the National association of Manufacturers, capital is girding up its loins all over this country for a death struggle with labor.

The meeting was that of the executive committee of the association, and beyond announcing the selection of the committee which was to work on this line this summer and report at the next stated meeting here in September, no formal statement of what was done was made, but it is known that subcommittees representing widely diversified industries were appointed to go to work systematically all over this country to unionize employers; that special steps are to be taken to engage eminent legal counsel in the several states to protect the manufacturers against boycotts, injunctions and the activity of walking delegates, while at the same time none but cordail good will was expressed for the laboring men themselves.

The president of the association was authorized to select additional legal counsel, and the general officers were instructed to report a plan of legal defense against picketing, boycotting and the obtaining of injunctions, such as several labor organizations in the west have obtained recently to the embarrassment of their employers.

The special committee on reorgani zation of the National Association of Manufacturers, at the New Orleans convention, a few days ago, appointed a sub-committee of seven, to which the president and the general secretary were added, as a permanent committee on organization of employers throughout the union, At the meeting yesterday they passed this resolu

"Resolved, That the secretary of this association be empowered to communicate with the employers in any trade which shall, by the request of five members of this association engaged in any one line of trade, and that such special trade be organized into an association, and that the secretary is herewith empowered to render reasonable assistance in the work of organizing employers of such spe cial trade."

Another result of the New Orleans convention, which was furthered yes terday, was the systematization of the work of the special committee which is to devise and put into effect practical plans for bringing about the coope ration of the many state employes' associations.

GRAUSTARK

We have a good one for our readers now-GRAUSTARK. THE STORY OF A LOVE BEHIND A THRONE, BY GEORGE

¶ Marie Bankhead Owen, reviewing the story in the Bookworm, says: A practical bookman has just said, "no book since Trilby has taken so great a hold on the popular fancy as Graustark."

Theing a story of love behind a throne, it teems with scenes of adventure and impassioned romance.

The author, George Barr McCutcheon, himself an American, has given the reader a noble example of an ideal American as hero.

The plot is thrilling and well sustained, the story being told in vivid, terse English.

The motive of the story is the love of a man and a wo-man, and what that love emboldens them to venture, to dare, to renounce, to endure!

It is beyond the province of the reviewer to reduce the plot of a masterpiece of fiction to a compressed summary of the story. A zealous story reader delights in the discovery of what happened next as well as to revel in the style and the literary atmosphere.

BOARD OFFICERS ELECTED

The state board of health at a meet ing at Louisville decided to forward to the transportation managers of the different railroad companies the report of the committee which has been investigating the sanitary conditions of railroad cars. This report was adopted without incident by the doctors. It recommended more thorough cleansing of cars; modifications in the way cars are built; use of different car furniture than pow is in use, including the substitution of cane seats and backs, instead of the customary plush, which the report declared carried disease germs; the use of formaldehyde gas as a disinfectant.

Manager Pike, of the Pullman com pany, appeared before the medical men and said that his corporation would accept the suggestions of the state board of health wherever possible. He intimated, however, that the furniture and furnishings of the Pullman cars were hygienic.

Dr. J. M. Matthews, of Louisville, was re-elected president, and Dr. J.N. McCormack was also elected sanitary inspector. Dr. Eisenman was elected veterinarian.

A committee was appointed to recommend more rigid requirements for students of medical colleges before they could practice medicine.

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON Author of "Graustark," Our Next Serial Story

Never since Anthony Hope's "Prisoner of Zenda" revolutionized romantic literature has a story appeared so replete in blended love and episode, so thrilling and at the same time so tender in its heart passages as Graustark.—New York World.

A woman is a woman, although she is a princess, is the key note. There are very pretty love scenes, but the love is honest and true and inspires sympathy.—Houston (Tex.) Daily Post.

Don't Miss Graustark IT You Want to Read a Charming Story of Love and Adventure

GRAUSTARK

We have a good one for our readers now-GRAUSTARK, THE STORY OF A LOVE BEHIND A THRONE, BY GEORGE BARR McCutcheon.

¶ Marie Bankhead Owen, reviewing the story in the Book-worm, says: A practical bookman has just said, "no book since Trilby has taken so great a hold on the popular fancy as Graustark.

Theing a story of love behind a throne, it teems with scenes of adventure and impassioned romance.

The author, George Barr McCutcheon, himself an American, has given the reader a noble example of an ideal American as hero.

The plot is thrilling and well sustained, the story being told in vivid, terse English.

The motive of the story is the love of a man and a woman, and what that love emboldens them to venture, to dare, to renounce, to endure!

It is beyond the province of the reviewer to reduce the plot of a masterpiece of fiction to a compressed summary of the story. A zealous story reader delights in the discovery of what happened next as well as to revel in the style and the literary atmosphere.

¶ I would as soon be given a glass of skimmed milk or a squeezed lemon as a book of fiction accompanied with a synopsis of its contents. Graustark I leave therefore to the pleasure of the prospective reader.

BRITISH RULER SUBJECT TO FAINTING SPELLS.

London, May 25-There are rather serious rumors current in regard to the health of King Edward. These stories have been in circulation for several days past. They are to the effect that he had a sudden attack of pain at the opera just after returning from France. A few days later, while he was in Scotland, his majesty experienced similar attacks, which resulted on two occasions, it is said, in fainting spells. The king is under careful treatment and observation, but it is thought that an operation may be necessary within a short time. In the meanwhile he is able to go about almost as usual.

BY LINCOLN, DESTROYED

BY LIGHTNING.

Springfield, Ill., May 25-During heavy thunderstorm that frightened the people of this city lightning struck and practically destroyed the historic elm tree which Abraham Lincoln planted with his own hands in front of his home on South Eighth street in this city. One monster branch of this tree shaded the house, drooping down over the roof. The lightning tore this heavy branch off and sent it crashing down upon the roof. Some little damage was done to the home.

This was the only tree left about the place that was planted by Lincoln himself, and planted while the family of the martyred president resided at the Springfield Lincoln home. The tree has been pointed out to visitors wards, wife of the custodian, notified Secretary of State Rose.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Made Them So

After Years of Heart and Nerve Trouble.

Weak and hungry spells indicate a nervous affection of the heart. The nerves are not getting the nourishment they need, and unless treatment is speedily begun, disastrous results are sure to follow. When strengthened, invigorated and restored to their normal state the nervous system abounds in energy, vitality and norve-force, and successfully resists the attack of disease and decay. Dr. Miles' Nervine is the true nerves onic, turnishing, as it does, the exact element of nourishment and strength which the shattered nervous system requires, so that good results, noticeably pronounced, follow the giving of the first few doses. It is a wonderful nerve specific.

"For many years I was a sufferer from heart and nervous troubles. I would have spells when I would be uncommonly hungry even after eating; headache, sour stomach, griping pains, weak, trembling spells, me sometimes quite severe. The doctor gave only temporary relief from pain and I decided to try Dr. Miles' Remedies. I began with one bottle of the Heart Cure and one of the Restorative Nervine, and they helped me so much that I got some more. When I had taken six bottles my nerves were as steady as clock-work. Dr. Miles' Nervine Made Them So

After Years of Heart and Nerve Trouble.

Weak and hungry spells indicate a nervous affection of the heart. The nerves are not getting the nourishment they need, and unless treatment is speedily begun, disastrous results are sure to follow. When strengthened, invigorated and restored to their normal state the nervous system abounds in energy, vitality and nerve-force, and successfully resists the attack of disease and decay. Dr. Miles' Nervine is the true nerves onic, turnishing, as it does, the exact element of nourishment and strength which the shattered nervous system requires, so that good results, noticeably pronounced, follow the giving of the first few doses. It is a wonderful nerve specific.

"For many years I was a sufferer from doses. It is a wonderful nerve specific.

"For many years I was a sufferer from heart and nervous troubles. I would have spells when I would be uncommonly hungry even after eating; headache, sour stomach, griping pains, weak, trembling spells, me sometimes quitte severe. The doctor gave only temporary relief from pain and I decided to try Dr. Miles' Remedies. I began with one bottle of the Heart Cure and one of the Restorative Nervine, and they helped me so much that I got some more. When I had taken six bottles my nerves were as steady as clock-work. I could eat anything I wanted and as much as I wanted without it hurting me. I thank Dr. Miles for the good it has done me."—John B. Adams, Glenn, Ga.

Character building must be done alone, and by yourself. The ground must be cleansed of debris and the structure must be erected stone by stone.-Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

THE WEATHER. Fair tonight and Tuesday.

NEEDED, AN UP-TO-DATE MAN. The News-Democrat yesterday mentioned a few things that The Sun has years past. It says:

with the remarkable growth and in disadvantages of the inferior sort of vestment of private capital that has public service they have been getting. been going on here for several years Paducah is no longer a mere town, it is a blooming city. But the port the man who boldly comes out sluggishness of the city administration for progress and improvement, who is in providing public improvements is becoming a serious menace to its continued growth. The lack of a suffi-cient sewer system is a semidal and provements. The Republicans of Pathe condition of many strests, gutters ducah will in due time offer such a and sidewalks an every day repreach. man. Capital will soon hesitate to invest in REBURING INDIFa town now so large and yet so indifferent to the essentials of economical administration and a healthy community. Why should Paducah be thus handicapped? Why should steps that would redound many fold to the common welfare be so long delayed? Why of Louisville women, who had to get Front street and five in the rear, and will not the present mayor, or some other man experienced in public affairs announce a positive policy of sweeping of "cleaning day" in several neglect. place. The third floor was packed public improvements, courageously stick to it, win out on it and perpetuate his name in the community as a public benefactor? All the people of Paducah need is a leader in whom they have confidence and they will tollow, but no timid, vacillating policy will receive countenance from them. The time is ripe for such a leader. Who will lead?

We believe any person with the interests of the city at heart, regardless of politics, can cheerfully indorse the We do not believe, however, that the Democrats can break their record and have out a man who suits the ord and have out a man who suits the above description. There is no indication of it yet. There has always been too much of a disposition in Pacetrian and the efforts of an army of boys in Probably the loss will be greater. them to, although in other places within two years after its construction people are usually, if not always, compelled to connect with the sewerage The first excuse offered for not requir ing it in Paducah was that the people had just finished paying for the sew erage itself, and were not able to stand the additional expense of connecting with it. Now, after they have had am ple time to recoup, the excuse offered is that the city cannot compel them to patronize a private corporation"-the water company-a theory absolutely foolish, because any city, notwithstanding a bushel of laws otherwise prohib itive, can compel anything that is deemed necessary or advisable for the health of the people. In addition, to compel people to connect with the sewerage would not necessarily force them to natronize the water company It is possible for every person to have his own system of water works for flushing the sewerage pipes, and in cities many have. They put up a tank, fill it by pumping water from a well, and have an independent system. If anyone here preferred that to the payment of water rent, he could do it, and would not be compelled to pat ronize the water company. When the question of keeping up ows was agitated, it was claimed that to do as other cities do, and require stock kept up, would impose a hardship on some classes. Yet Paducah has over 20,000 people, embracing five or six thousand families, and the last assessment shows less than 400 cows. In order to benefit these comparative 'y few cow owners, the whole city must be made a stamping ground for livestock, a. d a large majority of the people must e. dure it. This is perhaps a small matter, but it shows the spirit that has been ram | ant among our lawmakers, and which n. litates been telling the people for several against the progress of Paducah.

Past Democratic administrations have inexcusably neglected many for an administration of the city's and the progressive people are affairs that will be commensurate beginning to realize the injury and with the remarkable. The time is ripe for a change, and The Sun believes that the people will sup-

ARTIFICIAL RUBIES NOW MADE.

Process Turns Out Stones as Beautiful as the Real Ones

The manufacture of artificial rubies, which in appearance are as good as the natural stones, is now an accom-plisted fact. A dem natration of this achievement was et.en to the mempers of academie des sciences yesterday afternoon.

Some years ago artificial rubles were placed on the market, but a microscopical examination revealed the fact that the crystals were imperfect. The rubles manufactured by M. Verneuil, however, are of a superb red color, and of a purity and sparkle equal to the genuine article. The cost of producing them is not a heavy one, so that there is every reason to anticipate that the new discovery will lead a sensible diminution in the price of he formerly precious stones.

The rubies are obtained by a new process, in which the blow-pipe plays an important part, and the stones are both beautiful and of a goodly size. The specimen shown at the meeting of the academy was much admired by the savants .- London Leader.

Calm Stage Manager.

Maurice Grau's stage manager this season is a Belgian named Almans, a man of high professional reputation in Europe and a wonder of sartorial perfection. Amid the scenes of confusion that occur between acts he stands the picture of faultlessly dressed composure. He wears immaculate evening clothes, never removes his white gloves however strenuous the action of his subordinates may become and no circumstances allows his opera hat to fall from under his arm. New York has never seen his equal.

WON THE MACHINE

Popular Young Lady Holds the Lucky Number.

Miss Sophie Luttrell, of Sutherland Medicine Co., Wins

Miss Sophie Luttrell, a pretty and opular stenographer at the Sutherland Medicine company's office on North Third street, was agreeably surprised on arising yesterday morning to learn that she held the lucky number 12,990, which won the automobile raffled off under the auspices of the Carnival association.

Today the handsome machine was turned over to her, and it is understood she will sell it. The manner in which Miss Luttrell came into possession of the lucky number is very interesting. Mrs. John Rock and Mrs. Womble During the carnival she was walking along with several young men when they all bought chances in the automo bile. They gave them to her. One laughingly said that if the ticket he gave ber won the automobile, she would have to take him with it.

Constable J.C. Campbell, of Princeton, Ky. whom she had only a short time before met, desired to be more gallant than the others, and said as he gave her the ticket that he would do better, and she would not have to take him with his ticket. It was the ticket the latter gave her than won. Miss Luttrell formerly lived at Sturgis Ky.

The drawing took place as announce ed beforehand, Saturday night, and Chairman James Lang conducted it. The report published in a Sunday morning paper that a colored man had drawn the automobile hadn't the slightest foundation, according to Leansboro, Ill., yesterday in company Chairman Lang, of the drawing committee.

The story about the darkey bring ing the number into Chairman Lang's store was a fake out of the whole cloth. and Chairman Lang stated today that the last man he saw after he closed up and started home was a reporter for the paper which published it, whom he informed that the number had not been presented, and who had no excuse fer writing the other story.

A HANDSOME TRAIN.

The passenger department of the Illimois Central railroad sends out one of the prettiest things in the way of railroad advertising that has yet come out. It is a 9 1/2 x4 descriptive booklet of its famous Daylight Special which it runs between Chicago and St. Louis. This train is one of the prettiest in store the entire country, and travel on it is indeed a pleasure. Its equipment consists of a buffet-library car, parlor car, chair car and day coach, all made expressly for this train. Every comfort and convenience known to the modern car builder's art is embodied in its makeup, and in decorative work it is probably not be back from Milwaukee buffet is well stocked with good things up to the very highest standard. The to tickle the palate, and the selection of books in the library shows excellen visit to his parents. He is now work- judgment-you can find any of the very latest novels in it. The train Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Bondurant left is very popular and is growing more tral's night train, the Diamoud Spe-

CHAPTER I.

Copyright, 1901, by Herbert S. Stone

MR. GRENFALL LORRY SEEKS ADVENTURE, R. GRENFALL LORRY boarded the eastbound express at Denver with all the air of a martyr. He had traveled pretty much all over the world, and he pretty much all over the world, and he was not without resources, but the prospect of a 2,500 mile journey alone filled him with dismay. The country he knew; the scenery had long since lost its attractions for him. And so it, was that he gloomily motioned the porter to his boxes and mounted the steps with weariness. steps with weariness.

As it happened, Mr. Grenfall Lorry did not have a dull moment after the train started. He stumbled on a figure train started. He stumbled on a figure that leaned toward the window in the dark passageway. With reluctant civility he apologized. A lady stood up to let him pass, and for an instant in the half light their eyes met, and that is why the miles rushed by with incredible record.

Mr. Lorry had been dawdling away the months in Mexico and California. For years be had felt, together with For years he had felt, together with many other people, that a sea yoyage was the essential beginning of every journey. He had started round the world soon after leaving Cambridge; he had fished through Norway and hunted in India, and shot everything from grouse on the Scottish moors to the rapids above Assouan. He had run in and out of countless towns and countries on the coast of South Amer-ica. He had done Russia and the Rhone valley and Brittany and Damas-cus. He had seen them all, but not until then did it occur to him that there might be something of interest nearer home. True, he had thought of joining some Englishmen on a hunting tour in the Rockies, but that had fallen the Rockies, but that had rallen through. When the idea of Mexico did occur to him, he gave orders to pack his things, purchased intermina-ble green tickets, dined unusually well at his club and was off in no time to the unknown west. There was a theory in his family that it would have been a decenter thing for him to stop running about and settle down to work. But his thoughtful father had given him a wealthy mother, and as earning a liv-ing was not a necessity he failed to see why it was a duty. "Work is becoming to some men," he once declared, "like whiskers or red ties, but it does not follow that all men can stand it." After that the family found him "hope

He was just under thirty years, as good looking as most men, with no one dependent upon him and an income that had withstood both the Malson Doree and a dahabeah on the Nile. He never tired of seeing things and peoples and places. "There's game to be found anywhere," he said, "only it's sometimes out of season. If I had my way—and millions—I should run a newspaper. Then all the excitements would come to me. As it is, I'm poor, and so I have to go all over the world after them."

This agreeable theory of life had worked well. He was a little bored at times, not because he had seen too much, but because there were not more things left to see. He had managed somehow to keep his enthusiasms through everything, and they made life worth living. He felt, too, a cer-tain elation, like a spirited horse, at tain elation, like a spirited horse, at turning toward home, but Washington had not much to offer him, and the thrill did not last. His big bag and his hatbox, pasted over with foolish labels from continental hotels, were piled in the corner of his compartment, and he settled back in his seat with a pleasurable sense of expectancy. The presence in the next room of a very smart appearing young woman was prominent in his consciousness. It gave him an uneasiness which was the beginning of delight. He had seen her for only a second in the passageway, but that second had made him hold himself a little straighter. "Why is it," he wondered, "that some girls make you stand like a footman the mo-ment you see them?" Granfall had ment you see them?" Grenfall had been in love too many times to think of marriage. His habit of mind was still general, and he classified women broad-ly. At the same time he had a feeling that in this case generalities did not apply well. There was something about the girl that made him hesitate at la-beling her "Class A or B or Z." What it was he did not know, but unaccountably she filled him with an affected formality. He felt like bowing to her with a grand air and much dignity. And yet he realized that his successes had come from confidence

At luncheon he saw her in the din-ing car. Her companions were elderly persons, presumably her parents. They talked mostly in French, occasionally using a German word or phrase. The old gentleman was stately and austere, with an air of deference to the young woman which Grenfall did not understand. His appearance was very strik-ing, his face pale and heavily lined, mustache and imperial gray, the eye-brows large and buthy and the jaw and chin square and irm. The white haired lady carried her head high with unmistakable gentility. They were all dressed in traveling su'ts which suggested something foreign, but not Vien

But she was smiling and her dimples showed, and Grenfall was ashamed. For some moments he sat gazing from the car window, for

When he got back to his compartment, he rang vigorously for the porter. A coin was carelessly displayed in his fingers. "Do you suppose you could find out who has the next com-

After the porter's departure he took the coin from his pocket, and, with his back to the door, his face to the window, studied its lettering.

At one little station a group of Indian hear hunters created considerable.

dian bear hunters created considerable interest among the passengers. Gren-fall was down at the station platform at once, looking over a great stack of game. As he left the car he met Uncle Caspar, who was hurrying toward his niece's section. A few moments later she came down the steps, followed by the dignified old gentieman. Grenfall tingled with a strange delight as she moved quite close to his side in her desire to see. Once he glanced at her face. There was a pretty look of fear in her eyes as she surveyed the mas-sive bears and the stark, stiff antelopes. But she laughed as she turned away with her uncle. Grenfall was smoking his cigarette and vigorously jingling the coins in his pocket when the train pulled out. Then he swung on the car steps and found himself at her feet. She was standing at the top, where she had lingered a moment. There was an expression of anxiety in her eyes as he looked up into them, followed instantly by one of relief. Then she passed into the car. Doubtless she would have been as so licitous had he been the porter or the brakeman, he reasoned, but that she had noticed him at all pleased him.

At Abilene he bought the Kansas City newspapers. After breakfast he found a seat in the observation car and settled himself to read. Presently some one took a seat behind him. He some one took a seat behind him. He did not look back, but unconcernedly cast his eyes upon the broad mirror in the opposite car wall. Instantly he forgot his paper. She was sitting within five feet of him, a book in her lap, her gaze bent briefly on the flitting buildings outside. He studied the reflection furtively until she took up the book and began to read.

The first page of his paper was fairly alive with fresh and important dispatches, chiefly foreign. At length, after allowing himself to become really interested in a Paris dispatch of some transportant of the page of the p international consequence, he turned his eyes again to the mirror. She was leaning slightly forward, holding the open book in her lap, but reading, with straining eyes, an article in the paper

He calmly turned to the next page and looked leisurely over it. Another glance, quickly taken, showed to him a disappointed frown on the pretty face and a reluctant resumption of novel reading. A few moments later he turned back to the first page, holding turned back to the first page, noung the paper in such a position that she could not see and, full of curiosity, read every line of the foreign news, wondering what had interested her. Under ordinary circumstances Lorry would have offered her the paper and thought nothing more of it. With her, however, there was an air that made him hesitate. He felt strangely awkarose, tossed the paper over the back of the chair, as if casting it aside for-ever, and strolled to the opposite win-dow and looked out for a few moments, jingling his coins carelessly. The jingle of the pieces suggested something else to him. His paper still hung inwitingly upside down, as he had left it, on the chair, and the lady was poring over her novel. As he passed her he drew his right hand from his pocket, and a piece of money dropped to the floor at her feet. Then began an embarraced accords for the spin, in the bornassed search for the coin—in the wrong direction, of course. He knew precisely where it had rolled, but purposely looked under the seats on the other side of the car. She drew her skirts aside and assisted in the search. skirts aside and assisted in the search. Four different times he saw the little piece of money, but did not pick it up. Finally, laughing awkwardly, he began to search on her side of the car, where-upon she rose and gave him more room. She became interested in the search and bent over to scan the dark corners with eager eyes. Their heads were very close together more than once. At last she uttered an exclamation, and At last she uttered in excanning the her hand went to the floor in triumph. They arose together, flushed and smiling. She had the coin in her hand.

"I have it!" she said gayly, a delicious foreign tinge to the words.

"I thank you"— he began, holding out his hand as if in a dream of cesta-sy, but her eyes had fallen momentari-ly on the object of their search. "Oh!" she exclaimed, the prettiest one surprise in the world coming into her face. It was a coin from her faraway homeland, and she was betrayed into the involuntary exclamation. Instantly, however, she regained her compo sure and drepped the piece into his outstretched hand, a proud flush mountoutstretched hand, a proud flush mounting to her cheek, a look of cold reserve to her eyes. He had hoped she would offer some comment on what she must have considered a strange coincidence, but he was disappointed. He wondered if she even heard him say:

"I am sorry to have troubled you."

She had resumed her seat, and to him there seemed a thousand miles be-tween them. Feeling decidedly uncomfortable and not a little abashed, he left her and strode to the door. Again a mirror gave him a thrill. This time was the glass in the car's end. He the brown head was turned slyly and a pair of interested eyes looked after him. She did not know that he could see her, so he had the satisfaction of observing that pretty, puzzled face plainly until he passed through the

Inc. Style of a Dorothy Dodd." is disided.

It cannot be duplicated by any other maker, because the 'Dorothy Dodd.' is a totally different construction from any other ladies' shoe made. It holds the foot firmly at the waist (that's the instep), prevents the toes from slipping forward, and thus gives a correct poise in walking. Yet it makes the foot look nearly a whole size smaller. That's curious, and you won't believe it till you see it.

SATURDAY'S GAMES.

The Clarksville team forfeited the ame to Paducah Saturday in the last half of the seventh inning, when the score was 8 to 7 in favor of Clarks ville, on a decision of Umpire Winfrey, who called Masseran safe at to throw him out. Masseran was playing off the base and the majority of the spectators seemed to think he was By this action on the part of Clarksville they forfeited the game by a score of 9 to 0. It will probably go before President Thompson in a con done by Willie LeCompte at short and by Coppock in the field. The two did excellent work, LeCompte making one error in trying to take a pop-up which got between his eyes and the sun. The second error was on a wild throw. Coppock played an errorless game, catching four men out in center field and making one hit. All the Paducah boys played well, especially Tom Clifford behind the bat. His headwork in this position is doing much for Paducah. The Clarksville boys had few sensational plays, the only one of especial mention being Atkisson's one-hand stop of Sweeney's hot grounder to short.
